at Work in an Open Field. WAS ALONE AT THE TIME.

Gentlemen Returning from the Ball-Field Saw Him, But He Was Dead When Physicians Arrived-A Young

Tolar C. Christian, a white man about 35 years of age, and one of the city's street hands, was struck by lightning during the severe thunder-storm yesterday afternoon and instantly killed.

nue, which is just opposite Richmond College and parallel with Franklin street, when at the very beginning of the storm, and before more than a few drops of rain had fallen, a bolt of lightning struck him on the right temple, from which it glanced to the breast and thence to

WAS IN THE FIELD ALONE. At the time no one was in the field through which the new street is being run, and the only persons who witnessed the lightning's work were some gentlemen returning from the base-ball park, and who at the time were quite a distance from the spot upon which Christian met his death. Strange as it may seem, they did not see the flash of lightning, nor notice that there was an unusual clap of shunder. Indeed, they did not realize at prices that'll make you think Cotton Fabrics are higher that the man had been struck until they were immediately opposite him, and saw that he was prostrate upon the ground. they went to the spot, and, upon ascertaining the truth, telephoned for the ambulance, which arrived in charge of Dr. Labenburg. The ambulance surgeon, seeing that the man was dead, promptly notified Coroner Taylor and turned the case over to him.

MARKS ON THE BODY. MARKS ON THE BODY.

Dr. Taylor I: 4 the body removed to the residence of the deceased, No. 406 west Hroad street, where he made a careful examination of the marks inflicted by the lightning's stroke. He found that there was an abrasion on the right temple an finch and a half long and three eighths of an inch wide; there was a mark upon the breast as if it had been burned, and the right hip looked as if it had been peppered with birdshot. There was no distortion about the face, however, or any other marks upon the body. The eyes were closed, but the pupils were found to be widely dilated. The body rapidly discolored, the blood settling very fast. The lightning had apparently left the body of the man after reaching the hip, and passed to the ground through the shovel, though the latter was uninjured. The deceased leaves a wife, but no is the second case of death by lightning which has come under Coroner Taylor's official notice in twenty-four years. The first was that of Richard Thompson, a colored teamster, who was ruck by lightning on Seventeenth street, ine 8, 1881. A rather remarkable fact is Both occurred just about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and as in the case of Christian, the colored man was struck at the beginning of a storm, before the rain had hardly commenced to fail. The most remarkable coincidence, however, is that both men were engaged in the same kind of work—shovelling dirt. Dr. Taylor said that he heard of two other cases of persons being struck by lightning in the city, but neither of these were reported to him. Several deaths have occurred in the county from this cause, the most notable being that of the whole family living east of Fulton, who were killed by lightning in the summer of 1882.

A GIRL SEVERELY STUNNED.

A GIRL SEVERELY STUNNED. The storm of yesterday was rather severe, though little or no damage was done to property. One of the girls who was doing some sewing for the Herculaneum spectacle, at the Exposition-Grounds, was shocked by a stroke of lightning, and it was nearly an hour before she recovered. She was then taken to her home on High street.
